

(3 Participants)

Key Takeaway

Participants organized contextual information into two categories: information about the problem and solutions that address the problem.